

Department of Water regulatory performance report card - period ending September 2016

The regulatory activities of the Department of Water are delivered under its REFOCUS program. This program aims to provide faster and more effective services for its customers in line with our Strategic plan 2015–2020 (September 2015).

The following improved services were introduced in 2015 to create greater efficiencies in our regulatory activities:

- Water Online: enables customers to electronically apply for a licence and submit statutory referrals and other land planning related requests for water advice.
- Business support unit: provides customer assistance for the department's online services.
- Integrated performance evaluation and reporting: utilises shared reporting resources for licensing and statutory referrals.

Water licensing

Our service

We currently manage around 12850 licences and permits state-wide. These are distributed between groundwater and surface water licences, licences to construct a well and surface water permits as shown in figure 1.

Our performance

We aim to finalise 80% of licensing applications within its target timeframes. Performance targets are 65 business days for low risk applications and 100 business days for medium–high risk applications. Our performance results are shown in figure 2.

Statutory referrals

Our service

We aim to optimise water resource management outcomes from land development processes of the state. Land planning and resource development proposals are referred to the department through the state's statutory decision making processes. We provide assessment and advice to decision making agencies and proponents of these proposals as shown in figure 3.

Our performance

In 2015/16 we provided advice to various statutory authorities on proposals related to land use planning change, mining and petroleum, reports and policies, land use development activities, environmental assessment and other general matters. We aim to provide this advice within 35 business days. Our performance results are shown in figure 4.
