About this Report

The purpose of this report is to provide information about the work carried out by the Fines Enforcement Registry. A number of different statistics have been included that illustrate different aspects of the fine enforcement process. Care must be taken in interpreting these statistics. It is NOT possible to compare one indicator with another as the methods of counting are not aligned.

Separate counting rules that best illustrate the work of the Registry are utilised for each statistic. Please read the counting rules on each page to help interpret the data.

The Fines Enforcement Registry (FER) was established in 1995 as the Government agency responsible for administering the Fines, Penalties and Infringement Notices Enforcement Act 1994 (FPINE). FER remains a Court of the Magistrates Court of Western Australia, so that while it is an administrative system, it remains part of the judicial process.

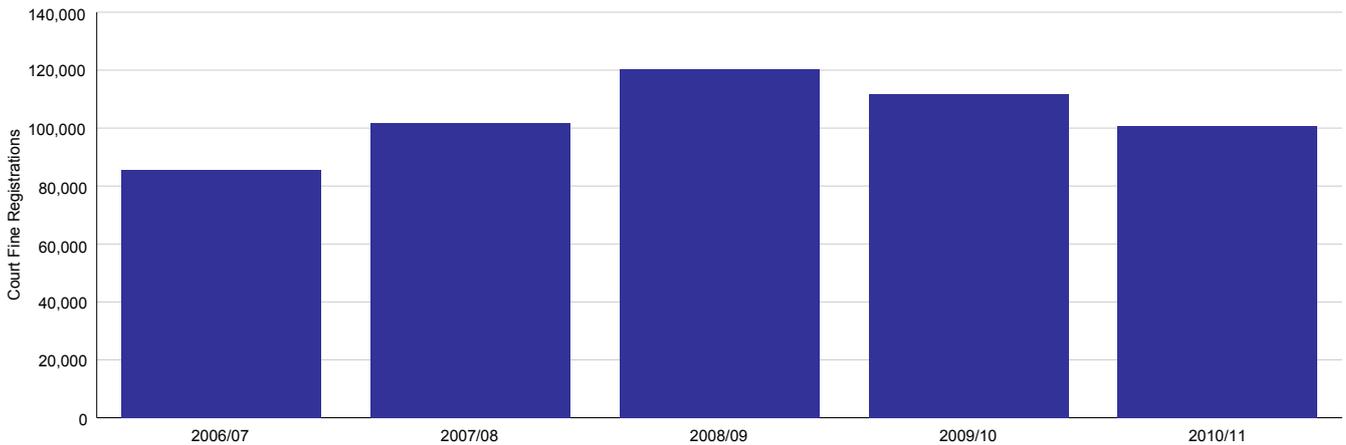

Fines are the most frequently used penalty in the Justice system of Western Australia. As well as fines resulting from charges brought before courts, infringement notices are issued by various authorities such as Police and Local Governments for a range of offences including traffic and parking.

Main objectives of the Fines Enforcement System are:

- Reduce the rate of imprisonment of fine defaulters;
- Restore the integrity of the fine as a viable sentencing option;
- Release police officers from the collection of unpaid fines to enable them to concentrate on core police duties;
- Improve rate of collection of unpaid fines;
- Decrease the cost of fines enforcement to the state; and
- Inform Offenders on the need for action on their part.

Counting Rules:

- (a) Counted as the number of entities that have had imprisonment warrants issued during each period shown.
- (b) Warrants are issued for Court Fines only.
- (c) A Warrant of Commitment is the final sanction and is the absolute last resort employed by FER. It is issued to offenders who do not respond to any of the less punitive fines enforcement sanctions. Upon being arrested on a warrant of commitment the offender must either pay in full, or serve the prescribed number of days in default (currently $250 per day).
- (d) Data on actual imprisonment for fine default should be obtained from the Department of Corrective Services.

Footnotes:

- During 2005, the Minister required a review of all outstanding warrants, as the overall imprisonment rate was increasing rapidly;
- In 2005-2008, a dedicated Case Management Team (CMT) within the Fines Enforcement Registry reviewed all warrants and offenders associated, with a view to make a final attempt at engaging the offenders into time to pay or work and development rather than imprisonment; and
- In 2008 & 2009, those offenders where the CMT attempts had failed, had their warrants reissued. Additionally, the legislation was amended to allow concurrent default rather than cumulative, and as a consequence a number of offenders sought to expiate their outstanding fines whilst serving sentences.

Instalment amounts are set by the Fines Enforcement Registry in consultation with the fine defaulter and designed to enable regular payments without the penalty of a driver's licence suspension.
