Revocation of General Procurement Direction 2022/01

General Procurement Direction 2022/01 'State of Emergency – Western Australian Procurement Rules and centralised purchasing of essential products' is revoked and replaced by issue of this General Procurement Direction 2022/03 'Centralised Purchasing of Essential Products'.

Direction in relation to essential products

1. It is imperative that essential products be available to meet the needs of critical clients across the State.
2. At this time, essential products are deemed to be products relating to personal protective equipment and rapid antigen tests and are listed in detail at Attachment A. The meaning of essential products may be extended to other products as and when required.
3. The Department of Health will coordinate the purchase of all available essential products. State agencies must procure essential products through the Department of Health in accordance with the procedure outlined at (4) below.

How to acquire essential products

4. State agencies requiring supply of essential products must follow the process outlined at:
https://ww2.health.wa.gov.au/Articles/A_E/Coronavirus/Advice-on-how-to-access-Personal-Protective-Equipment.
5. State agencies are advised to procure essential products only as and when required.

Further information

6. In accordance with the above directions, Common Use Arrangement suppliers responsible for provision of the essential products have been contacted and instructed not to fill any new or existing orders without approval from the Department of Finance.
